Sir Ernest Cassel Has Had Them Consolidated on Satisfactory Terms, and They Are Being Paid by Sinking Fund. (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

LONDON, April 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nothing excited so much surprise when the civil list was being settled as Chancellor Beach's statement that the King did not intend to apply for any lump sum for his debts. Of course, the King has debts, but these debts, owing to the exertions of one of Edward's multi-millionaire friends, Sir Ernest Cassel, have been consolidated on satisfactory terms, and are being paid off easily by a sinking fund covering principal and interest.

When Baron Hirsch died he held mearly £350,000 worth of the King's acceptances, but his widow-handed these back to the King, acting upon the verbal instructions of her husband to cancel them. > DEBTS OF THE WORLD. GGREGATE INCREASE TENFOLD.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—[Exc sive Dispatch.] Thirty-one billion d lars is the aggregate of the national debts of the world at the close of the nineteenth century. This is ten times as much as the closing years of the eighteenth century, according to the expert statisticians of the Treasury expert statisticians of the Treasury Bureau devoted to this work. This bureau has just issued a statement on the subject, it apparently being suggested by the recent announcement of the new British loan of $300,000,000.

In 1793, at the beginning of the Napoleonic wars, the national debts of the world amounted to approximately $3,500,000,000; in 1900 they were, according to the best information obtainable, $31,000,000,000. In general terms, it may be said that the world's national indebtedness in 1900 aggregated tentimes what it did at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

times what it did at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

Meantime the population has increased 150 per cent., and gold and silver, which form the basis of the money with which the debt payments are made, 300 per cent., though the proportion of existing gold and silver which is turned into coin is now much greater than at the beginning of the nineteenth century, while the utilization of various forms of credit as currency may have increased the world's circulation medium quite in proportion to the increase in its national debts.

The wealth of the United Kingdom, France, Spain and the United States in 1800 was estimated at $20,244,640,000, while Mulhail in 1895 estimated their wealth at $195,759,829,000, or practically ten times that at the beginning of the ten times that at the begin certain which is the best coal to be found in Japan, and to contract for a continuous supply for the transports. The Japanese coal is not the best, but it is found to be the most economical that can be used, it costs about $4 per ton, while Austradian coal taken to Nagasaki and sold costs about $12 per ton, owing to the high duty placed upon coal by Japan in the interests of her own coal fields. The great drawback to the Japanese coal is the fact that it contains too much sulphur, and instead of the combustion occurring in the furnace, it often goes into the pipes, and is very destructive to that portion of the bollers.

Much of the repairing that has been found necessary to the army transports has been about the bollers, which have been damaged by Japanese coal. At the same time, owing to the great cost of coal brought from Australia, it is found economical to use Japanese coal rather than pay the higher price for Australian coal. The navy does not use Japanese coal. At San Francisco the Quartermaster's Department pays the highest price for coal. Most of it reaches San Francisco as ballast, but some comes from North Pacific ports. The department is now experimenting with coal from Utah, and it is believed that it can be shipped to San Francisco and sold lower than other coals which are now purchased there.

"Splendid. More than a year ago, I said that the canal should be neutral. I am more convinced today of the necessity of such action. Erection of fortifications would make the canal one of the prime objectives of our enemy's operations in time of war. Besides, their construction would entail enormous expense and necessitate constant expenditure to keep them manned and in proper condition. I see no necessity for them.

"The neutrality of the canal can be guaranteed by our fleet. The canal is to be a commercial waterway and neutralization, therefore, will mean its preservation."

PATERSON (N. J.,) April 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The colony of an-archists in this city is greatly excited over the arrest of their president, Bruno Mazzotta, which took place dur-ing the week at the instance of Salvatore Bianchi, who formerly belonged to the Right-of-Existence group of an-archists. This was the group to which Bresi belonged, and of which Mazzotta is at present leader, or president. Maz-zotta is also editor of Il Movimento, the anarchistic organ. He is accused of assault and battery on Bianchi, and of living unlawfully with Mrs. Ambrosina Bianchi. Since he made the charge, Bianchi, it is said, has disappeared under fear of death.

Bianchi was never an active member of the anarchist group. His wife took more interest in the meetings than he did. When King Humbert was assas-sinated, she proudly wore the Bresci medallion at her heart. When her husband ceased to attend meetings, Mazzotta became her escort. KANSAS CITY (Mo.), April 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The death of Orth Harper Stein, announced in New Orleans, removes from the newspaper field a man who had attracted much attention. Stein figured in numerous sensational affairs, perchaps the most spirited of which was his encounter with George Fredericks, proprietor of the Opera Comique in this city, in which the latter was killed. Stein and Fredericks quarreled over a woman Fredericks quarreled over a woman with whom both were infatuated. The met on the street June 9. 1883, and in the ensuing fight Fredericks was shot to death. BEAUMONT (Tex..) April 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two new oil wells, the biggest crowd ever in Beaumont, three gushers spouting, a negro shot in a tremendous crowd, and a white man wounded by a stray bullet, and another oil well on the verge of spout-ing, is the record this peaceful Sab-bath day in Beaumont.

The wells, which are in the Texas and Colorado Oil Company's tract, in block 5, Spindle Top, are known as the Smith and the Guffy, No. 4, in Gladys city subdivision, drilled by Hamil Bros. The latter well spouted in regular Lucas fashion at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and the Smith well was drilled into the sand late yesterday afternoon, without losing more than a few barrels of oil.

Fully 15.000 people visited the field today, coming from all points of Toway coming from all points of Texas on seven tremendous excursion trains. The Beatty well, Higgins and Heywood were turned loose for the inspection of the multitude.

Pete Higman, a young white man, shot a negro four times in the face in the crowd, and injured O. T. Nugent, a white man of Louisiana, with a stray bullet. The cause of the difficulty was something of very little moment. The truth about the Standard company's reported nurchers, is a stray bullet. ard company's reported purchase is

SILVER AND LEAD MINES.

Mine Owners Called On to Decide if the Same Shall Be Disposed of to the Trusts-Districts at Trusts' Mercy.

DENVER, April 28.—[Exclusive Dis patch.] A meeting of all silver-lead-producing mine owners of the West has been called to decide what shall be done about the ironclad contract sub-mitted by the American Smelting and Refining Company. Every mining dis-trict in the State, except where the product may be treated by mills, cya-nide and chlorination works, as is largely the case at Cripple Creek, will be at the mercy of the trust octopus. The trusts will have the mines producing lead ores by the throat. The price of gold is fixed at $19 per ounce, where as the trust will receive $20.67 per ounce for it. The rates are based partly on the railway freight charges. and as railways are going into the hands of the same financial kings, the smelter trust will be in position to make rebates on freight to itself, while charging full tariff to the miner. Ore containing $30 worth of mineral and paying $10 per ton freight will pay $17 per ton treatment charges, thus leaving the miner $3 net out of which to pay the cost of operating his mine and profit for himself. Such a mine must close down at once. A $50 ore

God's True Character.

REV. PHILIP JAMES WARD preached yesterday at the Central Baptist Church, corner of Flower and Pico streets, from I John iv, 16: "God is love." Mr. Ward said, in part: "A more exquisite multum in parvo than this brief text of three words is not to be found in the whole Bible. There are but seven different letters used in the text. Seven the number of perfection: but the Bible itself may be successfully challenged to produce more information in so small a compass, than can be found in 'God is love.' It is a very different thing to realize God's love from what it is to recognize His bounty. To acknowledge God's bounty and at the same time to despise his love is a strangely antagonistic condition of things, yet it is the attitude of many in our congregations today. This description of God's character is emphatic and altogether unqualified. God is Just, but it is nowhere said that God is Justice, though we are authorized to say both that God is loving and that God is love. John, the beloved John, seems to say to other inspired writers. You have seen the paths of His feet and they are glorious; you have seen the works of His hands, and they are omnipotent; you have seen the glances of His lips and they are gracious; but I, who once lay upon the bosom of the incarnate God, I have gazed into the depths of His heart and say to you that Seen the care."

control the consciences of men in matters of religion, as further supported by the W.C.T.U., was characterized as the first real effort for consolidation of church and state.

In this effort to establish Christianity as the national religion, Sunday legislation has greatest prominence. The attempt to compel all citizens to recognize the first day of the week as the Sabbath, in opposition to the express commandment of God for the observance of the seventh day as the Sabbath, gives a distant rumbling of the voice of the dragon, which is finally to speak in thunder tones.

Allusion was made to the origin of Sunday observance. The day was the feast day of the ito atrous nation; who took the custom from the sun worshipers. In its desire to wipe out the visible distinction between Christianity and idolatry, the Catholic Church abandoned the true Sabbath and set up the false one, in the hone of merging the opposing factions. So other concessions were made to the heathen beliefs, whose image worship and other follies were tracked upon the degenerate church of Rome, from which the erroneous custom of Sunday observance was derived by modern sects. "The reason why it seems to me Christ may be said to be triumphing even here is that the great corporations are learning that this is the only way to make business prosper. A great street-railroad company gets a new manager, who says the good will and well being of the men are among the most important assets of the corporation. The steel trust finds it is unsafe to trust the control of the mills to well being of the men are among the most important assets of the corporation. The steel trust finds it is unsafe to trust the control of the mills to any but a man who has been in the ranks of workingmen and is well known to be in sympathy with them. He alone is capable of feeling the meaning of the esprit de corps common to the workers. He will be more likely to possess the sense of brotherhood, the tangible element in Christ's gospel.

"But even more significant of the fact that in reality Christ is influencing economic conditions and will in all probability do so in an increasing measure is the attitude of what might be called the 'satisfied classes.'

"Those see in present conditions injustice and seek to realize juster conditions, even though they have to surrender the privileges which they enjoy at present, is by no means a small number. The sense of being my brother's keeper' is increasing.

"The Peace Conference at The Haguwould not have been dreamed of had not the Christ made new triumphs in our time. Today the world looks on while America turns the ouner cheek to a lot of suspicious Cubans. We endure meekly because we have promised to give Cuba independent government.

"A year ago I was talking with an eastern college president about intellectual experiences and he spoke of those whom he met year by year a the line of his own special science at the American Geological Society. He said: 'Among the geologists of my acquaintance there is not a single one who is not a pronounced Christian believer." Burden Bearing.

"It remains for the nineteenth and twentieth centuries to destroy anarchy without restoring tyranny, to find a platform sufficiently broad and comprehensive to include the unity of the organization and the liberty of the individual. Alexander Campbell was the first to solve the problem by proindividual. Alexander Campbell was the first to solve the problem by proposing as a basis of Christian unity, not reason, nor emotion, nor theology, but a return to the authority of the divine, risen, ascended, yet indwelling Christ. His plea was for unity in submission to Christ and all He commanded for redemption and sanctification. 'Other foundation can no man lay than that which is layed which is Jesus Christ,' was his favorite text.
This is both internal and external authority. Christ in us the hope of glory. This is both internal and external authority, Christ in us the hope of glory, and Christ on the throne of universal power made known to the world in His word, which is 'quick and powerful.' Every sign of the times points to a speedy application of these great principles of Christendom. Every great movement of the church in the last century tends to exait Christ. The preaching of today is more Christological than at any time since the apositie's death."

ruse on the part of Detectives Hawley and Auble.

The Sheriff of Kern county telephoned to Los Angeles that Hannum was wanted in Bakersfield for embezling funds from oil operators while he was employed as a stenographer in the Kern County Bank. The Sheriff gave the Los Angeles officers an idea as to where the man might be found.

Detective Hawley learned that he was keeping house with his wife at No. 311 East Fourteenth street. When the detective called there he was met by Hannum's wife. Hawley did not

TRAP FOR EMBEZZIER.

How Detectives Spread a Net for W.
D. Hannum, Who Was Wanted at Bakersfield.

W. D. Hannum, who was arrested in Los Angeles Saturday afterno.n on a charge of embezziement, was last evening taken to Bakersfield, where he will face the charge. Hannum's arrest was accomplished by a ruse on the part of Detectives Hawley and Auble.

The Sheriff of Kern county telephoned to Los Angeles that Hannum to Detective that the she would give him the location of his office. It would not be out of his office. It would not be out of his office. It would not be out of his office to way, Hawley said, as he was then going down town.

way, Hawley said, as he was then goling down town.

Mrs. Hannum told the detective that her husband was W. E. Sparks and that he was employed at the office of the Wells, Fargo Company. No su h person nor one of the name of Fannum is known at that office, so the detective concluded Hannum mut te looking for work. Upon inquiry he located an employment agency in the hands of which Hannum had put his case, the agency having agreed to notify him to call at the office as soon as a position was in sight.
Hawley threw off his mask here, and told his business, requesting the agency to have Hannum present at 2

The funeral of William A. Grosser, the well-known astronomer, and one of the oldest residents of the city, whose death occurred last Tuesday, was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the hall of the Turnverein Germania, Main street. So many of the friends of the deceased attended the funeral that the hell and callery were filed. of the deceased attended the funeral that the hall and gallery were filled, and people were obliged to stand. There was no religious service. President Adolf Frese of the Turnverein Germania, for many years a warm personal friend of Mr. Grosser, delivered a brief oration at the hall, and there were several musical selections by Mme. Martinez, director of the Treble Clef Vocal Club and also by the singing section of the Turners. The Los Angeles County Pioneers and the A.O.U.W., of which the deceased was a member, were largely represented. At the cemetery Prof. N. Schanz delivered an address, in which he spoke of the simple, honest life of the deceased, and of the traits of character which had endeared him to all who knew him. Several songs were sung by the Liederkranz Society.

songs were sung by the Lieuerkranz Society.

In accordance with his oft-expressed wish, Mr. Grosser was buried in his wedding suit. The waistcoat was a beautifully-embroidered garment, made by Mrs. Grosser, prior to their marriage in Washington, thirty-nine years ago. This vest was always the most cherished of his possessions, and it was his dying request that it should form part of his funeral apparel.

The following telegram was received at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau late yesterday afternoon:

"Advise north-bound vessels of a severe southeast storm from San Francisco to Neah Bay."
The local forecast official stated last night that as no Sunday weather reorts are received, it was impossible ports are received, it was impossible to tell what possible effect such a storm might have upon the weather conditions here. That will be known today. That the storm is one of unusual severity is known from the fact that the Weather Bureau does not send out special warnings like this unless the storm is one which is likely to prove serious to shipping.

great national movements of recent years that have practically made him the "maker of navies."

FOUNDER OF THE SHIPBUILD-ING FIRM.

Mr. Cramp inherits the genius that has brought him such great success. He is the eldest son of a shipbuilder, his father, William Cramp, having established a shipyard on nearly the same site now occupied by the immense plant of which it was the nucleus, so long ago as 1830. That was two years after the birth of his son Charles, which occurred in the Kensington borough of Philadelphia on May 9, 1828. William Cramp was a notable figure in the early development of industrial Philadelphia. His was a strong, rugged character, possessed of virtues that made him beloved by his fellow-citizens. His indomitable perseverance was shown in the fact that amid conditions unfavorable to the development of his netrorise he overcame all obstacles. At the time of his death in 1879 he had the marvelous record of having built 207 vessels for the high seas, and had brought the once small shipbuilding plant of his early efforts to a world-wide repute.

Young Charles H. Cramp as a boy was sent to the old Central High School of Philadelphia, where, under the tutelage of the famous Alexander Dallas Bache, he received a thorough training in mathematics, a study for which the young pupil showed a peculiar aptness. As illustrative of this it may be noted that of the four putils of the Philadelphia Central High School selected by Prof. Bache to make nightly observations from the Girard College observatory, Charles H. Cramp was one. Reports of these observations were sent to Washington, and the system then inaugurated formed the basis of what is now the nation's signal-service bureau.

A gentleman who has been intimately associated with him for nearly a score of years, says: "Mr. Cramp's dominant characteristic is direct, persevering score splendid naval display made at the German festival in honor of the opening of the North Sea and Baltic Ship Canal. His Majesty was aboard the vessel on more than one occasion, and on his final visit partook of midnight I mean. He is not noisily aggressive. On the condensed of the condense of the conden

I mean. He is not noisily aggressive. On the other hand, he is a very quiet, unobtrusive personality; but so intensely earnest is he and so directly does he approach a duty or a task that one feels almost instinctively that success will come of his efforts."

To an uninitiated acquaintance of the shipbuilder this estimate would seem almost absurd, for in casual intercourse Mr. Cramp is not an impressive man, though you soon discover that he is mentally alert and is informed on all topics of current affairs and has a well-stored mind, especially on subjects allied to the development of the world's commerce and shipping interests.

It is within the immediate confines of individual cases. It may be a surprise to know that the builder of million-dollar ships for this and other nations is not many times a millionare, but the truth is that Mr. Cramp is not a very rich man. The energies and interests of his life have been almost wholly absorbed in the shipbullding plant that bears his father's name. He has not given time to the accumultaion of wealth for his own use. He is not known as a patron of art nor does he live in an extravagant fashion. He is a straightforward, simple-mannered gentleman, who has given all the years of his life to the arduous task of building up the industry that was in its infancy when he first opened his eyes upon the little world of Kensington.

world of Kensington.

HIS SONS SHARE HIS BURDENS.

Mr. Cramp has been twice married, and has five living children. Following the example of his father, he has drawn his sons into active identification with the shipbuilding industry. Henry W. Cramp is vice-president and treasurer of the company. Edwin S. Cramp is the superintending engineer.

Mr. Cramp is intensely charitable in his inclinations, and the immedate section of the city in which the Cramp's shipyards are situated offers a fruitful field for private and unostentations acts of benevolence. Many are the stories told of his generosity among the poor of Kensington. But one doubts whether, if asked about any one of these cases of helpfulness, the donor would be willing to admit the act, so quietly does he go about his works of charity.

Mr. Cramp is greatly honored in the commercial and industrial world of his native city, where no representative gathering is deemed complete without his presence and his advice and counsel on public matters are highly esteemed.

His life has been singularly free from HIS SONS SHARE HIS BURDENS.

Having paid him this handsome compliment, she beamed at his across the narrow table and expectantly awaited the question which she knew was sure to follow.

"And the other fellow," he laughed; "the one who shares with me the proud distinction?"

"He's the trouble!" came the answer in a pathetic voice. Then with sudden vivacity: "Did you ever notice that there's something about the movements of the average waiter that reminds one of Spencerian writing? There's a flowing grace in the way that he removes a dish cover, a fourlsh in the way that he sets down a plate, which marks him as a human exponent of the Spencerian theory."

Their order had arrived and it was industry.

Her face wore the hopeful expression of a person who has at last found a perfectly rational human being, who will see things as they are. Lorrimer drained his cup and set it down deliberately before he replied. Then he said:

GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS IN SHIPBUILDING.

"Mr. Cramp never makes a hurrah." said one of his close associates: "he is just the same no matter whether it be in his office consulting with some representative of this or a foreign nation, or whether it be making drawings or directing plans for some simple betterment about the yard with one of his foremen. But in all that he does he is plain, direct and forceful. He makes you feel that a thing can be done and leaves you with the impression that that is the reason why it must be done, however dublous you may feel about it before he puts his command upon you. This is the secret of his ability to get so much more out of a man than most directing managers. It has always been so since I have known him. He has so much confident force that he inspires every one around him with the same intense quality."

Of course Mr. Cramp has a knowledge of the shipbuilding trade that a half ceatury of active identification with it and a mind naturally predisposed by inheritance and early training alone could give, but it has been by intense and constant personal effort that he has mastered the modern problems of naval construction, and this has enabled him to turn out from his shipyards such splendid specimens of naval vessels as the New York, the Baltimore, the Indiana, the Massachusetts, the Brooklyn and the lowa of the new American navy. He left so much to the imagination.

Passing to the more directly per-conal side of Mr. Cramp's life, the come qualities of simple, direct, forcefulness are found to exist. He is known to nearly every one of the thousands of employés of the big yards, and there is not a man, from switch tender to consulting engineer, who cannot approach him. For years the immediate discipline of the works has been committed to other hands, but there is little of the life, individual or operative, that goes on without his knowledge.

In all the affairs between the company and the men Mr. Cramp takes a strong interest, and while firm in his stand when once assumed, he is kindness itself when it comes to a study of gown. Then she came back to Lorrimer and her story.

"I suppose that what happened was just—other men!" she said ruefully.

"The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak."

"What in the name of goodness is troubling you, then?" asked Lorrimer, thoroughly mystified.

"Why, I had a note from him this morning! He will be in town next Wednesday. His wife is dead!"

She composed her face to an expression of perfect propriety before mak-

"Reminiscences?" prompted Lorrimer, and she assented.

The tea pot was empty and the illusory cakes had vanished. There was a flutter of departing guests all about them, and they rose and made their way homeward.

At precisely 5 o'clock the next day Miss Barry was greeting Mr. Grantham with an expression in her dark eyes which was not well planned, if indeed it was calculated to reconcile him to his fate.

"You've grown—actually grown—rassment, "and then I'il retaliate in kind."

"I've simply been growing worldly and horrid, and I'm not at all the sort of a person that I was five years ago. I've given up my ideals—those exquisite chimeras which seemed so near to us that summer. You see, New York isn't the proper habitat for the soul."

Grantham's deep eyes were bent upon her half in doubt.

"I don't think you are quite fair to yourself," he began gently, and the look in his eyes made her wonder nervously how much longer it would be before Lorrimer appeared.

As if in response to her thought, he was announced at that moment, and the three were soon chatting pleasantly. If Mr. Grantham felt any annoyance at the presence of a third party, there was no trace of it in his manner. His eyes rested upon Miss Barry with a look which struck Lorrimer as being of the sort that one gives to an admired but utterly unattainable object—he looked at her as he might look at some beautiful ideal to which head ceased to aspire.

Flub have tea, I think," she said in a meditative manner, leaning her cheek against two fingers of her left hand, "and perhapsome of those little cakes—the ones that are so tempting on the outside and all emptiness on the inside."

From her tone Lorrimer understood that she meant to intimate that the affistic unities demanded cakes of this description. He irranslated the order into man-talk for the benefit of the obsequious waiter, and then asked with the air of one who was used to being made a confidant of:

"What's the trouble? Because I've noticed that when you order tea, it is an infallible sign of a disturbed conscience."

There was a flash of mirth in her.

with a defant look straight at Lorrimer:

"I was about to ask for Mrs. Grantham when Mr. Lorrimer joined us. I hope she is very well."

Left alone, she and Lorrimer looked at each other in a nonplussed manner for a moment. Then they both burst into peels of laughter.

She finally crossed the room and made a search in the small desk which stood in the alcove, and came back with her eyes bent upon the note in her hand. Sitting down beside Lorrimer, she held it out to him, looking rather foolish.

"It doesn't say that his wife is dead—but wouldn't you think so from the wording—and—and from the other circumstances?" she pleaded. Then devoutly. "Goodness! I'm glad I wore

LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) April 29.—In the Kentucky Derby tomorrow it is thought to be certain that Alard Scheck will be first choice in the betting, and His Eminence second choice, and many turf followers tonight say that the chances that the finish will find these two horses in the same position, as the betting. The Tennessee find these two horses in the same posi-tion as the betting. The Tennessee crowd will back Scheck heavily, espe-cially the Memphis part of it, and Lex-ington and the bluegrass contingent are said to be ready to bet a fortune on Sanazaro, who by some is thought to have quite a chance. The track is lightning fast, and as the weather promises to be perfect, a new record may be made. The crowd bids fair to be the largest ever seen at Churchill Downs, Cincinnati has ar-ranged to send two trainloads, and Ingood of the sport, here or anywhere else,) is in 'ts sere and yellow leaf. Tanforan closed its gates on Saturday night, not to reopen them until next October; and if it could be deferred until ten days before Christmas, so much the better. It is evident to the most inexperienced eye that cheating a top sawyer at a mile and a quarter, with 127 pounds up, that there were people in California ready and willing to match him against any horse in America to go two miles with 120 on each; and to let the acceptor stipulate the amount of the wager for which the proposition was accepted. When Waring won the San Francisco Handicap with 117 pounds in the saddle, beating such cracks as The Lady. Vesuvian, Star Chamber, and horses of that class, people said to me, "How did you come to overlook Waring in such a race as that, with this horse in at seven to ten pounds less than he had won with at the East?" My answer was that he had never won at distances above a mile, and had been frequently beaten at a mile there. So far as ordinary races go, one might have played him at those odds (9 to 2.) but not in a field of eighteen horses, with at least six con estunts that were put in only for pacemakers to kill off just such horses as Warring had previously shown himelf to be. On previous performances, there were at least six of those horses that figured to beat him. This, however, was an exceptional case and against the general rule.

In a general way, at San Francisco, during the past six months they have had six races each day—two purses, at from seven to ten pounds below the scale, and four selling races, in which tistent is unit of the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the same that it is unit or he had he was at the had he was to have him beaten. Now, there are many ways to get a horse beaten. You will hear a great many men say, "Oh, that horse was pulled. He has won at that distance before and beaten better horses than these." Yery true, but you like the same had been the same had been the same had been better horses than these." Yery true, but you like the same had been better horses than t ways to get a horse beaten. You will hear a great many men say, "Oh, that horse was pulled. He has won at that distance before and beaten better horses than these." Yery true, but pulling did not do. it. All a boy has to do to lose a race is to disobey the instructions of the trainer. If the horse is "a front runner," as 'they say in this country, all he has to do is to take him back and make a waiting race of it. His horse will have fretted himself to death long before the rider calls on him for a final effort on the home stretch. Suppose that the trainer gets his horse in good shape and thinks he can win at a mile if he can get through the first half of his journey without any majerial effort. He instructs the boy to that effect, and then comes somebody to bribe the jockey. No sconer is the flag down than out goes the boy and makes all the running. At the quarter he leads by four lengths and at the half by eight. He comes into the stretch, four lengths to the good, but all pumped out. He finishes "outside of the money," and his owner is given a start down the toboggan toward bankruptcy. The boy generally excuses himself on the ground that he had to sweat out so much in order to ride at 103 pounds that it took all his strength away, and he could not control the horse's action.

They used to have selling races in Australia, at all the tracks, until the decency of the people rose up against them. In 1893-4 the four leading tracks of that country—the Randwick and Rosehill at Sydney, and the Felmington and Caulfield at Melbourne—abolished them at once and for all time. Don't you suppose that this style of racing would be revived if there was any merit in it? But it never has been, and most of the men who practice it, at the backwoods meetings, are treated on the metropolitan track as if they were parlahs and outcasts. It is regarded by the most intelligent men on the antipodean turf as detrimental to the interests of true sport, and, therefore, worthy only of condemnarition. The Englishman for the Australian, who

Do you suppose that you could have any such legislation on the American turf as that inaugurated by the antipodean clubs, seven years ago, in the interest of decent racing? If you do, you don't know your own coungry. Just attempt to bring about such a reform as was started by the Victoria Racing Club, in 1893, and then see whom you will be obliged to fight. First would come James B. Haggin, who owns about four hundred mares and fifty-odd stallions; and you would hear-him say, in tones of almost freezing politeness: "Why, gentlemen, if you abolish selling races, you will do my business a great injury. I am selling over three hundred head of yearlings annually at auction, and you certainly cannot hope for all of them to show stake-form. Then you will also be do-

The question of reorganizing the town as a city of the fifth class, is agitated again. A proposition to so reorganize was voted down at a special election several months ago. Shortly afterward a number of citizens, who were interested in the contemplated change, and who believed that the voters who balloted against it had done so under a misapprehension, offered to pay the expenses of another election to determine the question. A petition with the number of names required by law was presented to the City Trustees, asking that an election on that issue be called. It appeared that the board could not legally accept the tender of election expenses, and the petitioners were permitt. I to withdraw their petition.

THEOSOPHISTS ASSEMBLE.

Delegates from Sixty-two Branches in the Different States Present at the Indianapolis Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.,) April 28.-The fifteenth annual convention of the Theosophical Society in America was held at the English Hotel today. Dele-gates were present f om sixty-two branch societies throughout the different States. A new constitution was adopted, and the following officials adopted, and the following officials were elected for the ensuing year:
Secretary, T. P. Hyatt, New York;
treasurer, A. H. Spencer, New York;
Executive Committee, Dr. J. D. Buck,
Cincinnati; Dr. A. P. Buckham, Fort Wayne: J. A. Clark, Washington: Dr Bunker, Brooklyn; Maj.-Gen. William Ludlow, U.S.A., now in the Philippines

M. H. Phelps, New York, and J. D. Bond, Fort Wayne.

The constitution adopted today differs from the old one, in that it places the adminsitration of the affairs of the society between conventions in an Executive Committee of seven members, to be elected at the annual convention. It also declares that any person declaring his sympathy with the objects of the society and agreeing to abide by the constitution shall be granted a certificate of membership.

The constitution provides that the expenses of the society shall be met by voluntary contributions, and that complete tolerance and freedom of action and belief shall be granted to each member or branch, but that they shall not have power to involve the society in any religious, political or social dogma.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Knocked Down by a Car.

Andrew Smith, a cigar maker of Santa Ana, was treated at the Receiving Hosipial late yesterday afternoon for sprains received when he was struck by a street car at the corner of Main and Flith streets shortly be-fore 5 o'clock.

While E. G. Boiston and wife were out driving yesterday afternoon their horse suddenly fell dead in the shaft. The accident happened between this city and Sherman, and Mr. and Mrs. Boiston had to walk nearly two miles to a car line, leaving their buggy in the road.

Coroner Holland will today hold an inquest over the remains of Ed Nelson, who died in the Receiving Hospital Saturday evening as the result of strychnine poisoning. It has developed that Nelson was never employed by a Compton rancher of the name of Ingalls, but was in the employ of the Union Oil Company at Santa Paula. Saloon Man Arrested.

Two distinguished Mexicans arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and are quartered at the Van Nuys. They are Joaquin Baranda, Minister of Justice since 1882, and José Dominguez Peon, Senator from Yucatan. They were entertained by Consul Andrade and other friends lest evening. It is probable that they will make an extended visit in Southern California.

Last Day for Payment. Last Day for Payment.

This is the last day on which the second installment of city taxes can be paid without delinquency, and after the office of the Tax and License Collector closes this afternoon the usual penaity will accrue on all taxes remaining unsettled. The second installment amounts to $386,000, and of this just $50,000 is unpaid. Tax Collector White said last night that he expects nearly $15,000 of this today, and before the end of the fiscal year he will probably be able to collect all but about $15,000 of the entire tax.

Stabbed "For Fun."

Jesse Shiveley, a steamfilter, was accidentally stabbed yesterday afternoon while at work in the new plant of the Union Ice Company on Alameda street. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital, and then went to his home at No. 804 East Third street. Three men were packing an engine, one of them lying on his side on the floor. A companion, in fun, pressed his head down to the floor, and to make him desist the prostrate man swung his arm around to strike his persecutor. He held a knife in his hand, and as he swung his arm back the blade of the tool struck Shiveley on the calf of the right leg. The blade went in two inches or more, and the wound bled profusely.

as a servant, and disappeared simui-taneously with the-valuables. Although none of them has been recovered by the police, the jewelry taken from Gotia at the time of his arrest has been iden-tified by the San Francisco authorities as that stolen from the home of Mrs. Espinosa there.

At the Chutes.

There was a merry crowd of 7000 people at The Chutes yesterday. The band and orchestra were a-going and a new vaudeville programme was provided, including Flechtl's Tyrolean troupe of warblers and dancers, clad in their native costume. Their vocal selections, whether solos, double, triple or quartette singing, in either English or German, are excellent and pleasing. They give Tyrolean warbling, Tyrolean dramas and Tyrolean warbling, Tyrolean framas and Tyrolean setches. Elsie Flechtl, a demure little miss of 7, made the hit of the afternoon and evening. Besides these new people, Beno, the king of the slack wire, gives a new turn. Eddle Griffiths seems to attract everyone on the grounds to see his act when he coasts the entire length of the chutes and into the water below on a bleycle. Rabe and his den of snakes and performing bear still please the child en. At night the electric fountain presented a new bill of aquatic figures.

CALLAHAN NOT GUILTY.

Which Disappointed the Judge-Two Counts Still Hang. IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.

OMAHA (Neb.,) April 28.—James Cal-lahan was declared not guilty today of any complicity in the kidnaping of Ed-ward Cudahy, Jr., shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The judge had evidently been expecting another verdict, and was openly disappointed.
"It is impossible for me to understand," he said. "how twelve intelligent men could have agreed upon such a verdict, after listening to the testimony. The defendant could not have chosen more wisely if he had been selecting his own representatives, and the community could not have made a more unsatisfactory selection. This jury is discharged without the compliments of the court."

ments of the court."

Callahan's attorneys were not present, and the defendant expressed a desire to thank the jurors in his own behalf. This the court refused to permit. He said the jury did not deserve any thanks.

Two other counts still hang against Callahan. He was at once rearrested under these. There is doubt, however whether the State will be able to bring the cases to trial. Chief of Police Don-ahue announces that the $50,000 offered for the apprehension of Pat Crowe will be withdrawn. He says it is one thing to arrest the culprit and another to convict him. The reward of $50,000 of-fered jointly by both city and Edward Cudahy, however, will still remain in Cudahy, however, will still remain in force.

As far as could be ascertained, there was at no time serious difference to the opinions of Callahan's innocence among the jury. Three were inclined to favor a verdict of guilty, but were soon convinced by their colleagues that a reasonable doubt existed.

Gen. Cowin, leading the prosecution, says that Callahan will probably be released in the morning. The other charges against him, grand larceny and false imprisonment, are virtually synonymous. The State would be obliged to depend upon the same evidence as that which has already been brought out, and there is doubt in any again on a charge so closely akin to that on which he has been declared innocent. County Attorney Shields will be guided by this view, and Cal-lahan's liberty is practically assured.
